

The Trumpet PRESENTS...

Pictured above is the 2011 Prom Court. The court is nominated by the Senior class and is comprised of five boys and five girls.

DJ Dave Mara lit up the room with dozens of blinding lights and blasted the roof of the Palace off with fantastic music all night!

If Prom is the academy awards, Post Prom is the after party at George Clooney's penthouse. The High School comes alive at 11:30, immediately after Prom Ends, and is filled with food, carnival games, inflatable rides and entertainment shows. Post Prom lasts until five a.m. Some of the most notable events include the Hypnotist Show, the Segaway course and of course, the dozens of prizes which include, laptops, tvs, and iPad and the PT Cruiser!

Connor Tench and Ally Armstrong were crowned Prom King and Queen Saturday night. The senior student body spent two weeks nominating candidates for the court (picture below.) Voting for king and queen took place on the Thursday and Friday before prom and was open to all faculty and staff at the High School. Ally and Connor were joined by the entire court for the King and Queen dance.

Parkland High School's 2011 Senior Prom was held at the Palace Center again this year. This was the third time Parkland has hosted its prom at this venue and it was a tremendous success again. The decision to move venues (from the Holiday Inn Fogelsville) was made three years ago by the class advisors and a team of administrators. The Holiday Inn proved to be too small for Parkland's gargantuan party! The Ice Palace, on Hanover Ave. Allentown provides an excellent space to accommodate our 950 plus student prom!
